A Level Geography Activity 3

Current affairs

Being interested in what is going on in the world is also important in Geography. Anything you can do to broaden your perspectives on current global issues such as conflicts, climate change, natural hazards and international migration will give you a head start on your A Level Geography course.

Simon Reeve's travel documentaries often feature a lot of material relevant to A Level Geography topics, for example:

This programme links particularly well to the Global Systems and Global Governance topic on the A Level Geography course.

Watch the programme and answer the following questions:

1. Explain the connections between international migration, fruit and vegetable farming in Spain and plastic pollution.
2. Should migration into Europe from Africa be allowed?
3. Should farming under plastic be allowed?
4. How would your life be affected if neither was allowed?
